EDITORIAL

The Nigerian Library and Information Science Trends is a long standing professional journal with a large and wide subscriber base. Its flavour is to bring currency, authority and accessibility in the reporting of current research issues and debates in the broad area of library, information science and communication technology.

I am delighted to inform our teeming readers and subscribers that the current issue, Volume 5. Numbers 1 & 2, 2008 is a bumper harvest of scholarly articles x-raying not only major policy frame work of the current administration but also issues on the way forward for librarianship of the 21st century.

The twain articles by Mr. K.N. Egbukole and Mr. M.U. Aniebo captures the main policy thrust of the state government viz, Libraries, Librarians and Environmental Management: The Imo State "Clean and Green" Initiative; The Role of Libraries and Information Agencies in sustaining the Imo State Government Environmental Protection Programme.

Specifically the articles by Ngozi Azubuogu and Gabriel Bosah, respectively dealt on Consortium and Capacity Building for Nigerian Libraries. Messrs Chuma Nnadozie and Emma Anyanwu ventured into Public-private partnership in public libraries. Book publishing and trade was highlighted, ditto to rural information provision. Utilization of library facilities by academic staff was aptly discussed.

We hope you will find the nine articles in this issue very interesting and stimulating.

Editor-in-Chief.
